

PROFILE

Dr. Ravindra Kumar

Head and Principal Scientist (Animal Nutrition)

ICAR-Central Institute for Research on Goats, Makhdoom, Mathura

Dr. Ravindra Kumar has completed Bachelor of Veterinary Science and Animal Husbandry from C. V. Sc. & A.H. Mathura with Vice-chancellor University silver medal. He has obtained his M. V. Sc. and Ph.D. degree in Animal Nutrition from ICAR-Indian Veterinary Research Institute, Izatnagar. He was recipient of ICAR (JRF) and IVRI (SRF) during his Master and PhD program respectively. Dr. Kumar has significantly contributed on ruminant nutrition, methane mitigation, unconventional feed utilization, rumen microbiology, complete pellet development, Sulfur hexafluoride technique of methane estimation in goats and rumen microbial culture. During his professional carrier he proved himself as excellent teacher and researcher. He has guided four M.V. Sc. and two Ph. D. students who are well placed. He has handled about twenty two research projects of national interest funded from Department of Biotechnology, Indian council of Agriculture Research, Department of Science and Technology, National Livestock Mission, NABARD etc. He was awarded with International Endeavour Award by Department of Education and Training, Government of Australia. He was on Foreign Deputation at CSIRO, Agriculture and Food, Brisbane, Queensland. He is also recipient of ANA Fellow award, ANA-U.B. Singh Memorial Young Scientist Award 2016, Outstanding achievement award, Best presentation award, ICAR-CIRG appreciation award. He has edited book/proceedings/newsletters and published around seventy research articles in peer reviewed journals of International/ National repute along with many book chapters and technical articles. He has developed many specialized complete pellet feed, commercialized one technology, two patents and standardized SF₆ technique of methane emission in goats. He is life member of many national scientific societies like Animal Nutrition Association, Animal Nutrition society of India, Indian Association for Advancement of Veterinary Research and ISSGPU. He is also the scientific reviewer and editorial Board member of many international like SRR, TAH&P and national scientific Journals.